— antenna space ROMA

what, where and why to show???

art in urban space is nothing new but still a valid and an exciting subject.

"unthinkable" is obviously a teaser but it serves as a good start for expanding common options.

antenna space is located on the strategic rooftop in a cross-roads facing piazza vittorio emanuele II. it is windy, vibrant and electrifying.
its soundscape is street noise completed by laundry fighting air-waves like sails on the sea.

by appointment only.

visit ROME?

i invite one artist at the time to join me in the italian capital for a weekend to stay at my apartment to talk, explore cityscapes and create a spontaneous art work in the antenna trapezoid.

nb/it is a purely private initiative and i can not sponsor the trip or other expenses involved.
